Turning Policy Data into Actionable Information

How Local Governments' Efforts are Creating New Markets
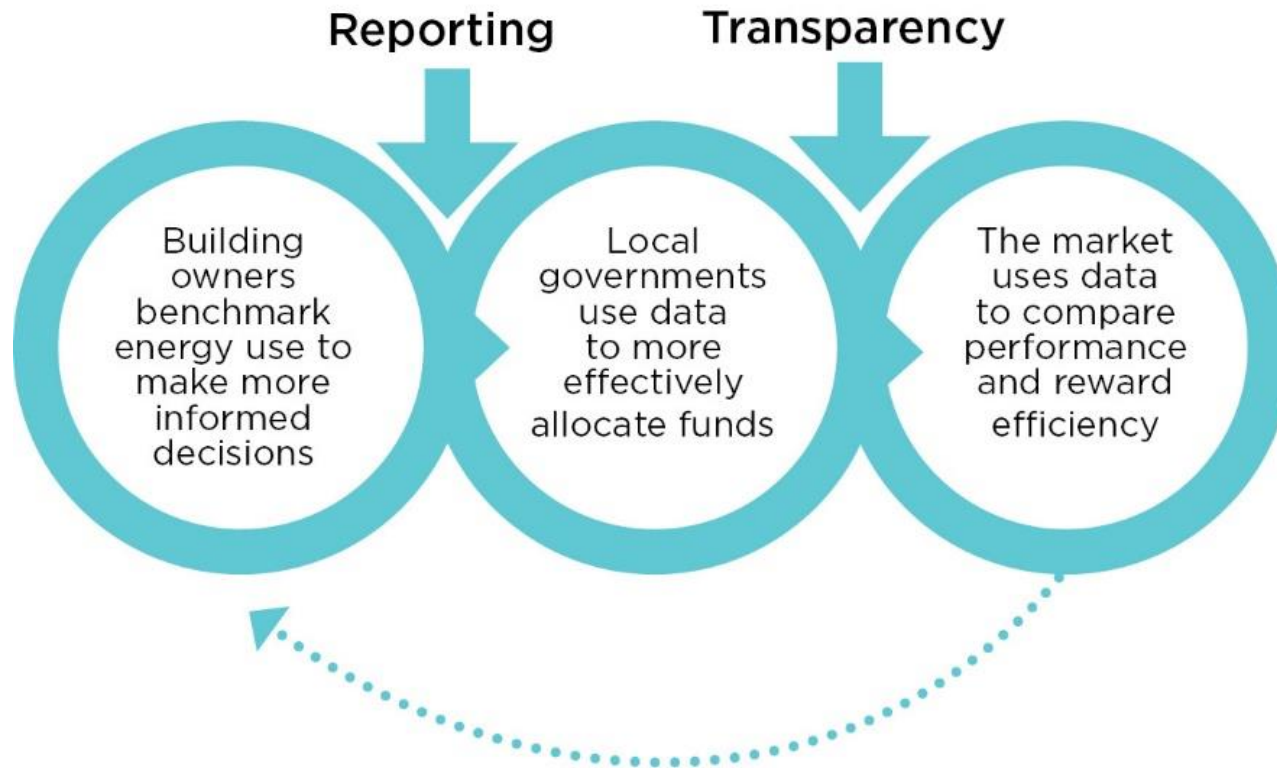

2017 National Symposium on Market Transformation

April 3, 2017

Energy Benchmarking

Benchmarking and Transparency

Market actions spur building owners to improve efficiency

Current Landscape

Legend:
- Beyond benchmarking (e.g. retrocommissioning or audit) policy adopted
- Public, commercial, and multifamily policy adopted
- Public and commercial building benchmarking policy adopted
- Public buildings benchmarked

Cities labeled on map: Seattle, Portland, Minneapolis, Evanston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Portland (ME), South Portland, Cambridge, Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, DC, Berkeley, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Boulder, Denver, Kansas City, MO, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Austin, Orlando

Building Rating — SHARING TRANSPARENCY FOR A MORE EFFICIENT FUTURE

IMT — INSTITUTE FOR MARKET TRANSFORMATION

© Copyright 2017 Institute for Market Transformation. Updated 2/2017

Tracking Policy Growth

10% of all U.S. commercial and multifamily buildings are now covered by benchmarking laws

Square feet covered (billions)

86,568 buildings subject to benchmarking laws (end of 2016)

IMT
INSTITUTE
FOR MARKET
TRANSFORMATION

Deploying Whole-Building Energy Data

Ali Levine
NYC Retrofit Accelerator Program Manager
New York City Mayor's Office of Sustainability

Rich Freeh
Senior Program Manager
City of Philadelphia Office of Sustainability

Hewson Baltzell
President and COO
Helios Exchange

IMT
INSTITUTE
FOR MARKET
TRANSFORMATION